administration coordinates efforts

The complex task of keeping the high school program functioning smoothly falls to the administrators. As supervisors of the educational system, the administration establishes educational policies, coordinates curricula and handles public relations. In addition to dealing with the broad areas of responsibility, administrators work individually with students and handle the complexities of course scheduling. In their attempt to provide the best possible educational program, the administrators meet a variety of challenges.

Dr. Ralph Horsman, Superintendent of Schools, supervises the activities of the nine schools in Mt. Lebanon Township.

As Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Joseph Keifer works with the educational materials and staffs of the school district.

Dr. Floy Penn, Director of Instruction in the school district, supervises curricular planning and investigates new concepts in learning.

Principal Dr. Nelson Mills supervises high school curriculum and guides the faculty and student body.

Vice Principal Ralph W. McDermot plans student schedules and organizes academic records.

Administrative Assistant Mrs. Geraldine Morgan directs attendance procedures and helps maintain school standards.

Dr. Mills and Mr. McDermot discuss a schedule change.

As members of the school board, Mr. John Loos; Miss Miriam Headley, secretary; Mrs. June Cameron; Mrs. Virginia Sherman; Mr. Robert Lauterbach; Mr. Donald Bush, solicitor; Mr. William Miller; Mr. Robert Simonds; Mr. James Orr, president; Mr. Louis Stark and Mr. Robert Dyson, correlate new educational concepts and programs within the Mt. Lebanon district.

Counselors Mr. Joseph Price, Mrs. Luella Caldwell, Mrs. Ferne Horne, Mr. Andrew Zeedick, and Mrs. Irene Hough, review requirements with visiting college representative Mr. Jack Tarbell.

Activities directors, Miss Dorothy Grove and Mrs. Judy McCartney, discuss Student Congress projects.

Mr. D. Moore, school psychologist, supervises testing as well as providing individual guidance.

Miss Marjorie Scanlon serves as speech therapist in the school district.

Secretaries, Mrs. M. Schilit, Mrs. M. Steffans, Mrs. L. Gerhold, Mrs. R. Clatty, Miss R. Wass, Mrs. F. Taylor, Mrs. B. Cassedy, Mrs. H. Irwin, and Mrs. J. Booth, aid the administration by keeping records and files accurate.

Miss Patricia Croke and Miss Fern L. High supervise the health service of the high school.

Home and School Visitor Miss Ruth Gordon correlates home and school relations.

By coupling writing practice with an introduction to the world's great literature, the English department helps students gain clarity of thought and expression. Discussing the symbolism in Great Expectations, writing a comparison of Walden and The Sea Around Us, or reading Emily Dickinson's poetry, students learn of the beauty of their language. Through a study of the works of authors ranging from Chaucer to Hemingway, students gain literary experience that can be applied to their own writing. By reading and understanding great works, they gain an insight into the thoughts of others—thoughts that will, in turn, stimulate students to do their own thinking.

Mastering a language requires frequent practice and constant effort. Through conjugating innumerable verbs, learning the intricacies of grammar, and mastering pronunciation, students gain the fundamentals of language. Then, by reading works ranging from Cervantes' Don Quixote to Camus' L'Etranger, students apply these fundamentals to understanding some of the world's great literature. From language studies, students gain greater understanding of the world around them and become more well-rounded individuals.

By teaching students their world heritage and debt to the past, Mt. Lebanon's history department establishes a firm basis for understanding the present and the future. Through learning about oriental philosophy in world cultures or studying the Kentucky-Virginia resolutions in U.S. history, students gain comprehension of the world and their relation to it. By presenting history from a wide range of source material, faculty members encourage student thought and self-expression, and in so doing help students recognize their capabilities.

education incorporates skills

Electives offer students the opportunity to learn technical skills and increase their cultural appreciation. By practicing the skills derived from the courses in shorthand, bookkeeping, and typing, students not only gain practical knowledge but an insight into possible careers in clerical or secretarial work. Participation in art, chorus, orchestra, and band provides an opportunity for students to develop their own talents, while the study of humanities mirrors the artistic achievements of others in man's cultural background. Through these courses, students combine scholastic achievement with practical knowledge.

A background of practical skills, in addition to academic knowledge, is essential to the well-rounded individual. Through participation in courses such as home economics, health, driver training and physical education, students gain practical knowledge that can be applied to everyday life. Along with learning the fundamentals of steering a car or cooking an appetizing dinner, students gain an understanding of the mechanics of an engine or a vital knowledge of nutrition. From health class, students learn body care, while physical education helps students develop physical fitness and good sportsmanship. Through such courses, students can benefit themselves and the people around them.

Custodian Mr. Joseph Smith takes time out for lunch.

The custodial and kitchen staffs work behind the scenes to keep the high school running smoothly. The maintenance men, by performing innumerable tasks, greatly add to the efficiency and physical appearance of the educational plant. The kitchen staff also provide an essential factor in the high school make-up. By preparing nourishing and appetizing food, they satisfy the nutritional needs of the high school population. Through the services of these two groups, high school life is made much easier, both for faculty and students.

The cafeteria staff prepares desserts for the day's lunch.

Cheryl,

It's about the amount of things I could write in here. Here's to all the fun and frolics we've had in the past year, even though you never were on our rockette bus. But we had groovin' times such as Rockette practice, Election day speeches behind the stage (I've never rubbed elegance a better secretary) & thank you for listening to all my Jimmy problems, which there were numerous. I bet you'd advise would have worked if Jimmy hadn't been so complex. & think you'll be the greatest and stay that way, and when I'm an airline stewardess I'll fly between Bowling Green and University of Michigan. We'll have giant riots. Good luck with Hal and all you do. all my love always—

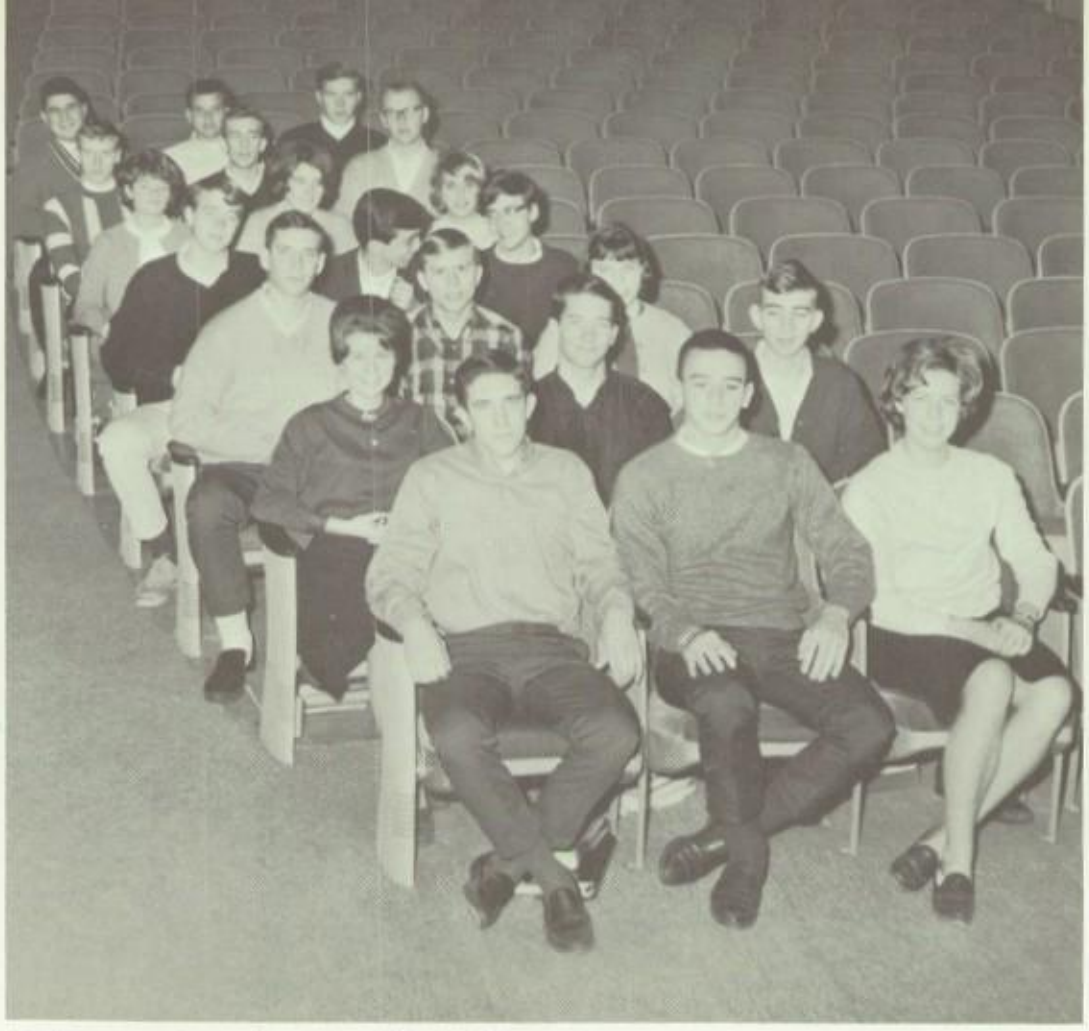
TUFF YEA ROCKETTES OF 1965 & 1966 (HOPEFULLY)

student congress fosters leadership

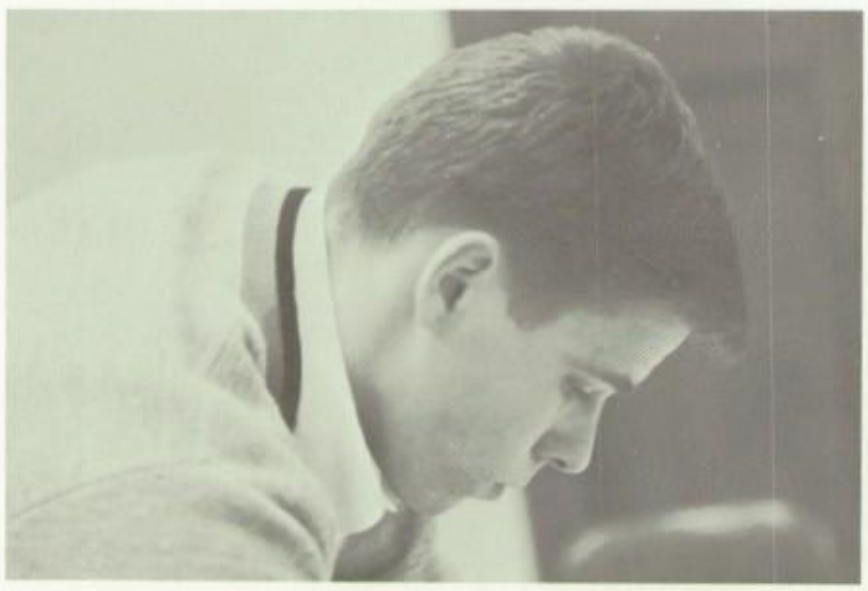
The exchange of original ideas in an attempt to meet the needs of the student body characterizes the Tuesday morning meeting of Student Congress.

Dave Chilcoat, Toni Jo Martini, and Pete Weaver, second semester Student Congress officers, co-operated in strengthening high school student government.

First semester Student Congress officers, Scott Robinson, Chris Comstock, and Jim Seay, offered new and constructive ideas to improve student government.

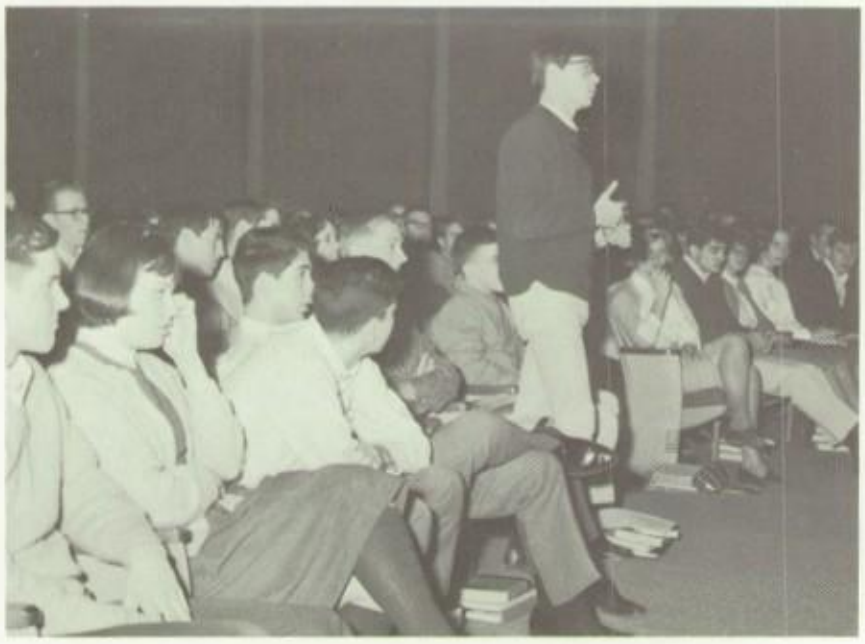


Senior representatives contribute ideas to Student Congress offered by the upperclassmen homerooms.



Vice President Scott Robinson concentrates on assembling the school scrapbook.

Student Congress, acting as a link between faculty and students, provides for a smooth interchange of ideas in the high school. The Student Congress, through the functioning of its many committees such as the American Field Service, the Committee for Beautifying the School, and finance, helps make individual ideas an integral part of high school make-up. The twelfth grade Student Congress representatives plan senior activities. Acting as a sounding-board for student opinions and ideas, Student Congress plays an important role in high school functions and brings democracy to the high school level.



Student Congress listens attentively as Mark Hurst presents a committee report.

students earn recognition

Jackie Tischbein received the D.A.R. award for her leadership ability and participation in community and school affairs.

Senior Reed Pyeritz received the Bausch-Lomb award for outstanding achievement in the field of science.

Chris Comstock, Sally Sherwood, and Carol Radasky received Activities Guards during the first semester for outstanding participation in activities.

Recognition of outstanding students came throughout the year in awards for service and scholarship. Over twenty members of the senior class received honors for scholarship by being named National Merit finalists. The Cum Laude Society recognized similar achievement by accepting twenty-nine new members. Prizes such as the Bausch-Lomb award for science and the Daughters of the American Revolution Award served to stimulate personal achievement. Activities Keys and Guards cited individual participation in school activities. Awards such as these acted as both a stimulant and reward for high achievement.

Alan Crook, Roger Cunningham, and Lee Herrington received the Book Awards from Williams College, Brown University, and Harvard University, respectively, for outstanding character and scholarship.

Lisa Hall interprets a scene from Mary Stuart for her attentive audience of N.F.L. members, Phil Wolford, Karen Hudson, and Stevan Davies.

Sue Van Dyke backs up Dave Feigenbaum's argument as Mike Kerr and Carter Nicholas prepare to disagree with her.

n.f.l. challenges student expression

Dave Feigenbaum, President of N.F.L., discusses plans for the next speech tournament with members Paul Zabetakis, Elaine Silver, Elaine Edwards, Cathy Heron, and Cherie Rusbridge.

From 7:30 a.m. bus trips to Butler on Saturdays to after-school debates at South Catholic, National Forensic League Members talked their way through the '64-'65 season. In decrying the evils of nuclear weapons or expounding on Webster's reply to Hayne, Mt. Lebanon's N.F.L. members gained a working knowledge of public speaking. Through participation in debate, ex temp, humor, oratory, and drama, League members gained self-confidence, poise, and reasoning abilities.

honor societies develop student talent

Because of their outstanding contributions to school publications, Cathy Campbell, Sue Keener, and Mary Shumaker became members of Quill and Scroll last year.

Modern Music Masters officers, Jody Hirsh, Connie Bailey, Sue Shuttleworth, and Eve Odenkirchen, gather after school to agree on a topic for the next meeting.

Through the local chapters of national organizations, Mt. Lebanon students receive recognition for their outstanding work in music, dramatics, and journalism. Student talent may lead to membership in Modern Music Masters, The National Thespian Society, or Quill and Scroll, where the students may pursue their interests in greater depth. Tri-M exposes members to various forms of music, ranging from the hootenanny to the drawing room recital, while Quill and Scroll members receive a greater insight into the world of journalism through lectures by local journalists. During the spring Thespians produced a theater-in-the-round presentation of William Saroyan's The Beautiful People. By participation in these national organizations, Mt. Lebanon students find greater opportunities to pursue their interests in depth.

students work for understanding

The opportunity for students and faculty to share their opinions on school problems is provided by the Advisory Council and Student Court. In the Advisory Council, representatives of each grade level meet with faculty members and administrators to discuss various facets of school life, ranging from conduct in the halls to attendance at athletic events. Before the judges of the Student Court, pupils are given an opportunity to discuss disciplinary problems. Through their work, these two organizations bring a feeling of understanding to the school and help cement student-teacher relationships.

Lynn Sabetti, Karen Mikus, Nancy Mardis, Cathy Heron, Sue McFeatters, David Bankerton, Caroline Tropp, Steve Addition, David Donahoe, John Guehl and Bob Gordon, members of Student Court, check the record of out-of-order offences before Tuesday's session.

The Advisory Council, made up of Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Adamson, Dr. Mills, Miss Grove, Rick Young, Cheryl Klein, Barb Danforth, Rick Wolfe, and John Seymour, helps promote understanding and cooperation between the faculty and the student body. Not pictured is Mr. Mathias.

mounty offers outlet for creativity

Typing done by Nancy Miller, Wendy Saul, Kathy Hamilton, and Sue Van Dyke helps the Mounty meet its deadlines.

Members of the art staff, Karen Koegler, Sue Harris, Alan Rappaport, Sue Work, and Jeff Brandimarte, examine some of their work in the Mounty.

Mounty editors, Bobbi Dulis, Alison Gordon, and Larry Giles, plan a forthcoming issue.

One truth emerged from the raucous two week "Lone Mounty" campaign: the Mounty spells student creativity. The school literary magazine produced five issues this year, under the guiding hands of the editors, Bobbi Dulis, Larry Giles, and Alison Gordon, and the discerning eye of the sponsor, Miss Elliott. The Mounty features student thought, expressed through poetry and short stories, set in a format of provocative sketches by the art staff. The Mounty took advantage of all these assets and succeeded in reaching a new peak in sales and subscriber appreciation.

Besides checking the Mounty's accounts, business manager Donna Shoemaker runs the sales campaign with the help of her staff.

log reflects school patterns

Kathy Erskine, Sue Hamilton, Joni Amdur and Sue Fleming help to prepare the Log classes sections by checking the senior portraits and directory.

Editors of the 1965 Log, Cathy Campbell, Sue Keener, Mark Hurst, Paul Zabetakis, Nancy Bayers, Sally Sherwood, Susan Shuttleworth, and their adviser Miss Jacqueline Hughes, work to produce a yearbook that will reflect the school year.

Photographers Chip Woodson and Carter Nicholas look over the results of an afternoon's work.

Tom Birris, Jim Martin, Suzanne Stewart, Jim Russell, John Gillilan, and Ron Lunardini, members of the Log sports staff, compile facts about the various Mt. Lebanon teams.

The Log depends upon the literary staff, Bill Nix, Mimi Grey, Marilou McNally, and Tim Hauser, for captions and write-ups.

The Log business staff, Fred Peal, Robie Meyer, Jack Robb, and Mark Weinberg, check the receipts and money from yearbook sales.

By the use of new layout design, an exciting cover, or spot color, the Log staff tries each year to produce a creatively different yearbook. Recognizing that a yearbook must report and reflect the events of the school year, editors and editorial assistants strive for accuracy as well as artistic effect. Staff members must devote their time to general problems of theme, unity, and design as well as details of sales, picture planning, copy, layout and deadlines. Besides the important work accomplished in producing the Log, they also benefit from experience in organization, administration, and responsible group effort.

Editorial assistants, Jim Lee, Barb Wilson, Judy Rosecrans, Marianna Read, Paula Levine, and John Hammerschlag, learn yearbook techniques in preparation for their positions as senior editors.

The Log activities staff, Laurie Rice, Kathy Miller, Elaine Andrews, Katy Montgomery, and Cathy Heron, assist in the preparation of the large activities section.

Members of the Log art staff, Nancy Steel, Paula Goodman, and Paula Peterson, design posters to help the fall sales campaign.

Mary Shumaker, editor-in-chief of the Lantern, makes a final check of a list of articles.

After days of chasing people for interviews, writing rough drafts, typing carbons, and assembling the paper, the staff of the new Lantern wraps up each month's edition and looks toward the challenge of the next. With its new and larger format, the Lantern now carries more news of school events ranging from basketball games with Uniontown to performances of the Triple Trio. In addition to news of our school, each month's Lantern includes two supplements. The Devilette, a mimeographed section, presents the result of student polls, which cover topics from Christmas presents to Easter vacations. The Scholastic Roto, a national publication, brings news of high school activities throughout the country. The Lantern, by reflecting the attitudes and interests of Mt. Lebanon High, puts the student in closer touch with his school.

Lantern typists, Sharon Nolte and Amy Pruitt, prepare copy for the next issue.

Jeff Jubelirer and Stephanie Overfield, members of the Lantern business staff, check the financial file.

Elaine Edwards, editor of the Devilette, reviews an article submitted by one of her staff members.

new lantern records school events

Editors and reporters of the Lantern, Tom Tewell, Marc Krass, Bill Stark, Jeff Jubelirer, Larry Rosenberg, and Barb Singer, analyze a recent issue of the Lantern.

Sherry Burton sketches a column head for the new Lantern.

choruses enrich musical background

Martha Mamula, Linda Charnell, and Barb Cunningham prepare a score for Girls' Ensemble.

Frequent rehearsals afford the Triple Trio the opportunity to refine voice techniques and strive for perfection.

The members of this year's Triple Trio, Marlee Pierce, Eileen Morgan, Jean McMillan, Evelyn Strom, Gail Holben, Suzanne Zwinggi, Margie Carter, Eve Odenkirchen, Cherri Amick, Roberta Gessler, Ann Bronson and Linda Forrester, successfully performed for various community functions.

Members of the Girls' Ensemble included: ROW 1: L. Charnell, S. Bragdon, M. Hayman, M. Smith. ROW 2: B. Cunningham, T. Michaud, R. Barclay, D. Russell. ROW 3: B. Felt, M. Hampson, J. Crump, M. Mamula, C. Hough, J. Donaldson.

In a free moment, Jean McMillan rehearses her alto solo.

A C major chord breaks the silence, and a new world of intonation, broken chords, perfect fourths, and major and minor keys opens to members of Mt. Lebanon's choral groups. By working with such numbers as "The Cold Wind," "Ho-La-Li," and "Tommy's Gone to Ilo," the members of Mixed Chorus, Girls' Ensemble, and Girls' Glee Club learn the finer points of group singing.

From the study of more serious first semester works, the choral music department, under the direction of Miss May K. Sneary, turned to the realms of musical comedy. The second semester spring show brought the culmination of the year's work. After weeks of agonizing, seven o'clock rehearsals came My Fair Lady, the application of a year's musical knowledge.

Under Mr. Yagello's direction the entire orchestra rehearses for the Spring Concert.

Jim Martin, Ken Guentner, and Ron Lunardini attempt a difficult trumpet passage while Margaret Wiest and Robert Leonard wait for the French horn and trombone entrances.

Rick Wolfe blends the harmonic tones of his bass with the melody of the solo instruments.

orchestra blends musical talents

Tim Auer and Marilyn Hall sustain the rhythm while the rest of the orchestra plays the dominant musical themes.

Beginning early in the fall semester, Mt. Lebanon's orchestra worked toward their spring performances. After endless hours of practice, the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Yagello, pleased both students and adults at the spring concert and My Fair Lady. By skillfully blending many individual musical abilities into one, the orchestra delighted its audiences with numbers ranging from Beethoven's "Finale" to "Wouldn't It Be Loverly." The musicians' hard work and outstanding talents combined to produce an atmosphere of creativity for the benefit of both players and listeners.

Dave Feigenbaum, Anne Heston, Marcie Fink, Margie Harris, and Alan Meek rehearse clarinet and bassoon music to achieve perfect rhythm and technique.

Raising his baton, Mr. Yagello prepares to give the orchestra the downbeat.

students display spirit and enthusiasm

J.V. cheerleaders, Donna Rubinoff, Diane Ritz, Chris Matthews, Sally Beidler, Ann Rectenwald, Terri McCully, Judy Beachler, Kay Ritz, and Nancy Collins, lend enthusiasm and spirit to the football games.

Members of the Varsity Service Club boost the spectator spirit at high school athletic events. Members were: FRONT ROW: J. Seymour, S. Calkins, J. Seay, E. Greenwald, J. Minecci, S. McNally, D. McMillan, T. Couch, P. D'Andries. ROW 2: P. Budovich, B. Armen, J. Russell, S. Hyslop, J. Pendleton, P. Kmec, R. Pyeritz, D. Bates. ROW 3: C. Garvey, D. Aitken, A. Crook, L. Herrington, R. Hoffmann, P. Dailey, B. Marsh, S. Robinson, B. Harvey, H. George, D. Bisset, G. Carter.

The boy cheerleaders of the senior class, Dennis Aitken, Roger Cunningham, Tom Kelly, Bill Austin, Rod Lore, Jack Evans, Barry Leiberman, Mark Capizzi, and Buzz Ritter, entertain the spectators at the senior recognition game.

Varsity cheerleaders, Nancy McGunagle, Dolly Rodenbaugh, Nancy Bonelli, Sue Ketchum, Arlene Cenedella, Sue Paulus, Margaret Williams, Gwin Reinhold, and Sue Devlin, cheer the Blue Devils on to victory.

Through the combined efforts of various organizations in the school, students gained the spirit of competition at athletic events. The diligent work and practice of the cheerleaders, pep club, band, and rockettes, coupled with color days and pep rallies, cemented student support of our athletes. This spirit culminated in the high enthusiasm shown at our football game with Uniontown, swimming meet with Bethel, and the basketball game with Baldwin. The newly-created varsity club added to student support of athletics by working to publicize the games. The work of these organizations paid off in increased student support and victories for our teams.

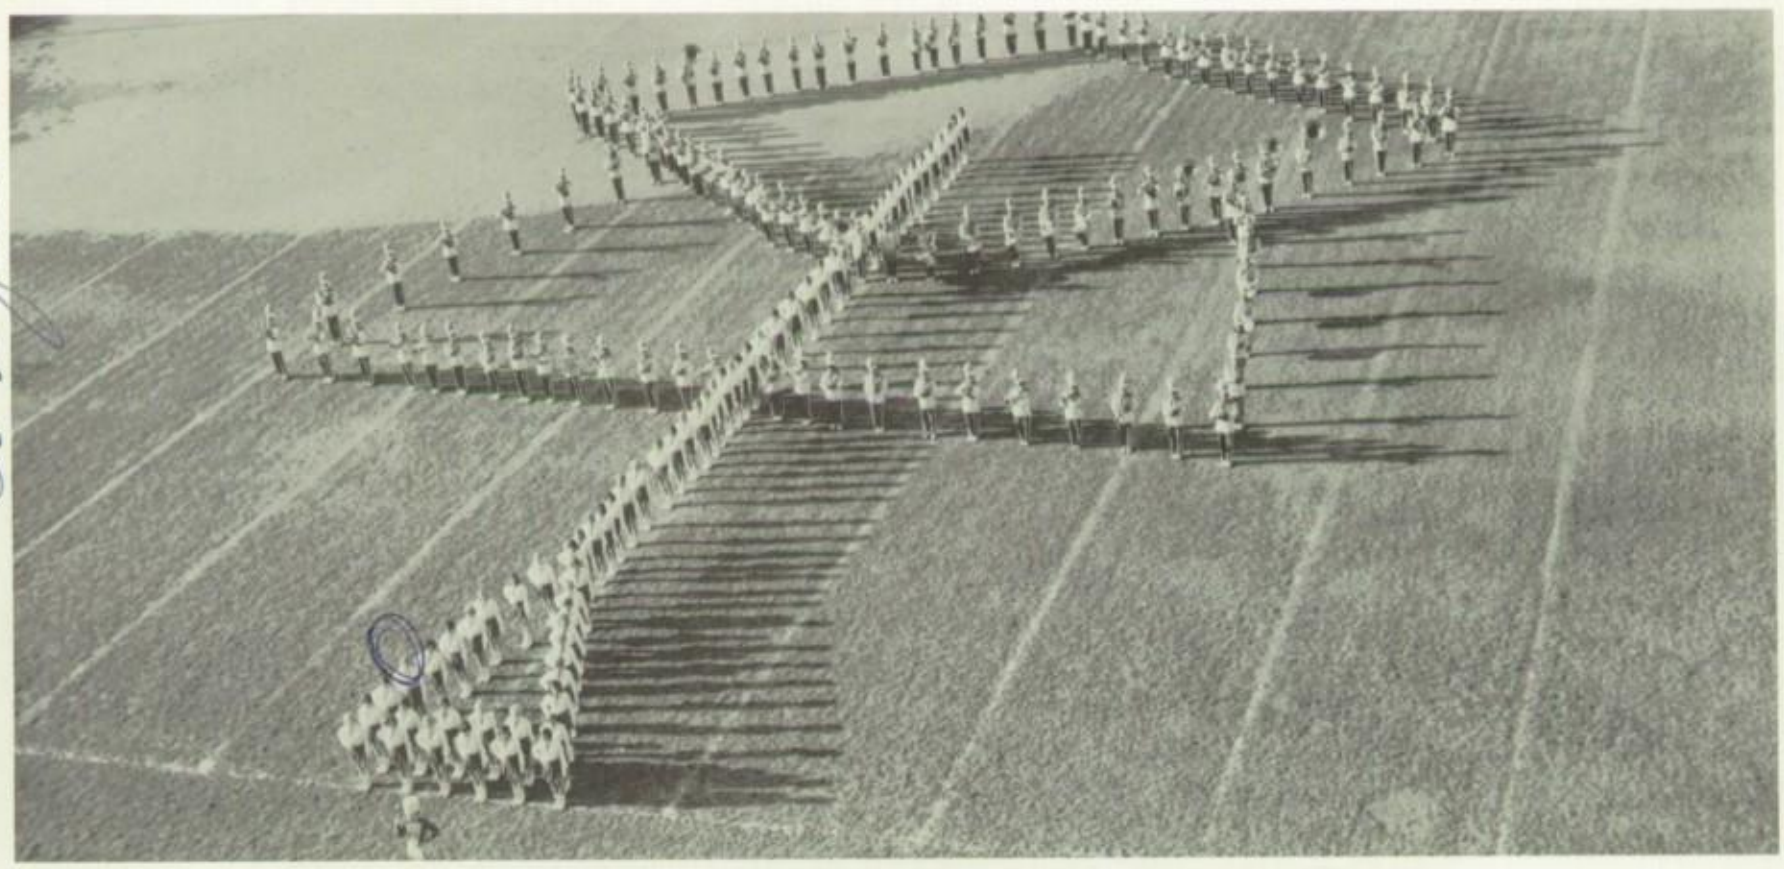
Mary Birmingham and Marianne Caplan, the Mt. Lebanon High School blue devils, greet the cheering spectators at a football game.

band develops instrumental skills

Between rehearsals, members relax and discuss the next band concert.

Band secretaries Barbie Singer and Sue Schneider discuss with manager Bill Squire plans for future band activities.

Mounty band members highlighted a season of precision marching and music with their appearance before thirty-five thousand spectators at the Pitt-William and Mary game at Pitt Stadium. Throughout the rest of the football season, perfect execution of such manuevers as the kick step helped to maintain the band's reputation as a nationally-known organization. Even as they prepared for the Spring Concert, the band performed at both regular season and championship basketball games. In preparation for this concert, members mastered such basic instrumental music skills as rhythm, technique and tone. Under the direction of Mr. Philip Prutzman, the band proved to be a valuable addition to school cultural and sport activities as well as a stimulating outlet for student talent.



To honor the graduation class of 1965, the band, rockettes, and majorette create a mortar board and tassel.

Members of the high school band were: FRONT ROW: J. Graves, N. Miller, S. Papier, V. Murphy, M. Steffens, G. Schwartz, C. Cunningham, M. Coho, M. Morris, S. Witt, C. Schnure. ROW 2: R. Frisch, C. Gray, K. Hartford, L. Stock, J. McDivitt, G. Benedicty, J. Klingerman, N. Watson, T. Otis, L. Black, S. Latchaw, C. Holland, M. Ottino, J. Britten, C. Markgraf. ROW 3: P. Jackson, L. Scarci, L. Lupean, J. Davis, E. Vietorisz, S. Mehaffey, M. Mayhew, J. Delano, D. Ross, L. Klein, M. Miller, S. Lynn, J. Thompson, G. Mayer, B. Hill, C. Howe, D. March, T. Boak, N. Logan, N. Schwartz, J. Hewitt, M. Weinberg. ROW 4: E. Sargent, E. Myers, M. Crosbie, B. Fair, C. Schlotter, C. Radasky, C. Evans, N. Morris, D. Strom, R. Kirkley, R. Frisch, D. Ham, M. Resnick, M. Mateer, B. Wyerman, M. Cathey, B. Keisling, K. Hastings, R. Larson, H. Douds, J. Bogman, J. Gaynor, E. Phillips, B. Moreland, B. Baker, R. Richards, F. Wesley, D. Tork, P. Ferson. ROW 5: S. Cox, K. Leonard, S. Hudson, D. Harmon, D. Macoy, E. Muny, L. Molnar, K. Joseph, M. Henderson, M. Andrews, J. Gail, B. Rubenstein, J. Brown, P. Dawson, J. Kassekert, G. Hussey, T. Gessler, C. Mandell, K. March, L. Shrader, G. Members of the woodwind section assemble for a band rehearsal.

Under the direction of Mr. Philip Prutzman, the high school band performs for civic affairs and high school events.

precision units lend half-time color

Rockettes march to their seats before the start of a game.

The Rockettes stand at ease before a half-time performance.

Weeks of rehearsals in the late August and early September sun produce the polished marching typical of Mt. Lebanon's Rockettes. Returning three weeks before the start of school, the Rockettes spend over five hours a day learning the intricate routines so familiar to patrons of Mt. Lebanon's football games.

In addition to their regular half-time performances at blue and gold games, the Rockettes made a guest appearance at Pitt Stadium. Throughout the year, Rockettes add color and spirit to school and community events.

students recreate salem witch trials

Julie Ketterer as Tituba pleads for mercy before Salem's judges.

Suspicion shrouds the Parris household when Reverend Hale, played by Mike Young, tests Betty for signs of witchcraft.

During the spring of 1964, the student body presented Arthur Miller's The Crucible as the all-school play. Under the supervision of Julian T. Myers, the students successfully enacted one of modern drama's most challenging productions. The acting, ranging from Elizabeth Proctor's gentility to the raving of the witch-obsessed teen-agers, revealed subtlety and depth. Connie Hill and Lou Zoller brought both force and tenderness to the roles of Proctor and his wife, while Julie Ketterer as Tituba, Diana Lewis as Abigail, and Mike Young as Hale helped increase the dramatic tension through their skillful performances. The accomplished dramatic interpretations, the cooperation of the make-up and costume committees and the efforts of the stage crews contributed to the complete success of The Crucible.

Lou Zoller as John explains to Connie Hill as Elizabeth the triumph in his death.

brigadoon presents highland magic

Eve Odenkirchen happily listens as Ron Baily tells her of the far-away United States.

Letty Schellsmith as Jean MacLaren and Sid Wolverton as Charlie Dalrymple perform the wedding dance to the accompaniment of bagpipes.

Through the combined efforts of the choral music department and the orchestra, the high school stage was transformed into the misty Scottish highlands of Brigadoon, a Broadway musical by Lerner and Loewe. Culminating many weeks of rehearsal and backstage preparation, Brigadoon told the story of a vanishing Scottish village visited by two Americans, played by Ron Bailey and Bob Rosen. Through meeting two young lasses of the town, played by Eve Odenkirchen and Sandy Kirtland, the two visitors learn the meaning of faith. Under the direction of Miss May K. Sneary, Brigadoon provided both a valuable experience for all involved in the production and a delight for the audience.

Chuck Culbertson as Harry Beaton breaks the festive attitude of the fair in Brigadoon with a few bitter words to Letty Schellsmith as Jean MacLaren and Eve Odenkirchen as Fiona MacLaren.

thespians produce theater-in-the-round

Charles Cox, Jody Hirsh, and Eve Odenkirchen as Owen, Jonah, and St. Agnes diligently search for a lost mouse as Quentin Van Meter, in the role of William Prim, peers through his glasses.

Owen, played by Charles Cox, listens intently as Harmony Blueblossom, played by Pam Walsh, explains her reasons for visiting the Webster household.

At the sight of the illfated mouse, Quentin Van Meter faints.

Jody Hirsh as Jonah, Rod Lore as Father Hogan, and Bob Rosen as Dan Hillboy propose a toast.

Members of the National Thespian Society, directed by Mr. Julian T. Myers, presented one of the winter's highlights with their production of The Beautiful People. The close spectator-actor bond of the theater-in-the-round performance intensified the effectiveness of William Saroyan's moving exposition of the nature of love. Jody Hirsh, Eve Odenkirchen, and Charles Cox, in the title roles as the Webster family, worked with Sue Duel, student director, to create a unique and rewarding theatrical experience.

seniors bring teahouse to the stage

Lotus Blossom dances in the new teahouse.

Lotus Blossom finds Captain Fisby vehement in his rejection of her attentions.

With his socks down, Sakini, played by Quentin van Meter, opens another act of the play.

Sakini's wave and a cry of "Socks up!" carried the audience to the bamboo and rice paddy world of post-war Okinawa in John Patrick's Teahouse of the August Moon. Presented by the senior class, Teahouse of the August Moon featured humorous performances by Lady Astor, Bob Rosen as Captain Fisby, Quentin Van Meter as Sakini and Sue Deul as Lotus Blossom. From long hours of early Saturday morning and late evening rehearsals, the seniors gained valuable dramatic experience and practice in cooperation with others.

Fisby questions Sakini about the demands of the Ladies' League for Democratic Action.

Jody Hirsh, as Colonel Purdy, ponders the whereabouts of his adventure magazine.

Bob Rosen, as Captain Fisby, accepts a cricket cage from Tobiki villagers.

Fisby decides to use the goat, Lady Astor, to test the native potato brandy.

Lotus Blossom, played by Sue Deul, pledges her heart to Captain Fisby with her gift of a chrysanthemum.

crews aid dramatic efforts

Carol Hirschfield, Roberta Rudick, Lynn Sabetti, Sue Crawford, Suzanne Ferrell and Marianne Krugh plan wardrobes and alter costumes for high school plays.

Bev Fox learns one aspect of the theater by powdering Sue Deul's hair before a production of the dramatic workshop.

Stage crew members, Had Thomas, Pete Phelps, Bill Ramsey, Howard Douds, Charles Cox and Eliot Meyers, supervise the auditorium lighting, props and curtains for all the school assemblies and dramatic productions.

Through their endless hours of backstage preparation, crews in charge of stage, lighting, scenery, costumes, make-up and properties help account for the success of the auditorium programs. By dimming a spotlight, putting a pin in a sagging costume, painting a mountain backdrop or moving a Jeep on and off stage, the various crews and committees put a final, professional touch to the numerous auditorium programs in the high school. Without the expert work of these squads, the Vanguard Theater, Hal Harrison's lectures, Teahouse of the August Moon, My Fair Lady and the various other auditorium programs would never have been possible.

Had Thomas, Linda Acklin, Chuck Gleeson, Rex Simpson, John Seymour, Larry Nelson and Phil Wolford, members of the properties committee, assemble props for The Teahouse of the August Moon.

Pam Walsh, Pam Hussing, Debbie Frick, Mary Burnham and Flozanne John welcome Leslie Thomas's idea for the scenery squad.

Debbie Donahoe, a member of the make-up squad, begins to transform Jody Hirsh into Colonel Purdy.

Members of the costume committee make some last-minute alterations before the opening of The Crucible.

councils coordinate activities

Members of the tenth grade guidance council, Deborah Gratz, John Delano, Con Howe, Karen Mikus, Carolyn Additon, Bruce Rosen, and Jim Jennis, prepare to discuss a homeroom meeting with vice-presidents.

Members of the junior guidance council, Sue Hamilton, Eileen Neely, Jean Coblentz, Sue Jenkins, Dave Herrington, and Tim Hauser, examine college catalogues in search of information for a future homeroom program.

The members of the twelfth grade guidance council, Hank Miller, Katy Montgomery, Cherie Rusbridge, Sandi Clinton, Chip Woodson, and Roger Cunningham, consult information concerning previous programs.

Four times a year, the vice-presidents face the task of presenting an interesting and educational program to their homerooms. The job of preparing these programs falls to the grade level guidance committees. Composed of selected students from each grade, the guidance committees plan programs ranging in scope from college fraternities to school responsibilities. By presenting the proposed programs to the vice-presidents in advance, the committees attempt to show the emphasis and manner of presentation of their work. Through their efforts, the guidance committees hope to give the student body programs which are both informative and beneficial.

tutors and secretaries practice skills

Student secretaries, Karen Hudson, Sharon Nolte, Beth Carney, and Diane Wikoff, help teachers with their work by typing tests and filing various materials.

Members of the secretarial and tutorial squads, through their work with teachers and fellow students, contribute greatly to the smooth operation of the high school. Whether typing a stencil of Emerson's "Self-Reliance" or correcting a test on the nervous system, teachers' secretaries perform innumerable tasks which facilitate the job of teachers in the high school. Members of the tutorial squad aid others by helping them with difficulties in their classwork. Through their participation in these squads, students can benefit both themselves and others.

Dan McGeary and Janine Schardong, student tutors, prepare their next lesson.

Sheryl? Would'nt it be great to know they'd put me on this page. Good Luck Always Janine squad activities aid school

Sue Cox, Andy London and Tom Tewell gather information on student and alumni honors for the Achievement Bulletin.

Bruce Rosen, Carol Radasky, and Kathy Erskine, members of the Honor Award Committee, review the activity forms filled out by the students in the homerooms.

The Honor Award Committee, including Mark Capizzi, Pat Early, Chris Comstock, Penny Butler, Nancy Ross, Nancy Olszewski, Carol Radasky, Kathy Erskine, Mary Birmingham and Janet Clark, keeps the activities record of each student up to date.

Roberta Rudick, Quentin Van Meter, Barbie Oram, Bob Oermann, Sue Walker, and Tom Pope help keep current information posted on the first floor bulletin boards.

Members of the Art Squad plan and prepare the exhibits in the halls and lobbies. Included in the group are Mike Novotny, Nancy Steel, Louise Rollinson, Suzy Work, and Bob Oermann.

Sue Cox types information on alumni and student awards.

Members of the various squads and committees work together to make Mt. Lebanon High School friendly, attractive, and efficient. The hospitality squad helps new students become acquainted with their teachers and classmates. The bulletin board and art squads arrange interesting displays in the halls and lobbies of the school, while the honor award and Achievement Bulletin committees keep accurate records of the activities of both students and graduates. By their efficient use of many skills, these squads help maintain a pleasant and orderly atmosphere.

Chip Woodson, Kathy Erskine and Rick Vitte welcome new students to the high school.

clubs futher student interests

Clubs play an integral part of student life in the high school. Through participation in the Future Teachers, Future Nurses, or Future Homemakers of America, students gain an insight into possible career opportunities. By practice teaching, aiding in the Tine Test, or making Christmas gifts for Kane Hospital, members discover for themselves the advantages, disadvantages, and rewards which each field offers. Other clubs provide equally interesting and challenging opportunities for their members. Chess Club members battle boardsmen from other schools, while members of the newly-formed Ski Club watch films and travel to Laurel Mountain. Spanish and Latin Club members gain greater insight into the cultural aspects of these fields through programs filled with the twang of Flamenco guitars or the glory of Caesar's conquests. From all these organizations, members gain benefits for both the present and the future.

Spanish club officers, Tom Boak, Vicki Craig, and Annamarie Castellanos, apply their knowledge of the Spanish language and culture during a club session.

F.N.A. officers, Barb Singer, Faith Hartney, Jean Sanders, and Mary Griffith, secure guest speakers and tour hospitals in preparation for their careers in nursing.

F.H.A. members, Carol Koynok, Gretchen Pieger, Pat Patterson, and Marianne Casey, gain practical hostess experience.

F.T.A. officers, Toni Jo Martini, Chris Comstock, Nancy Olszewski, and Betsy Smith, prepare a model lesson plan.

Ski club members, Jane Rectenwald, Elin Jonsson, Suzy Toon, Katy Montgomery, Pat Patterson, Bonnie Frear, Ann English, Leslie Thomas, and Meg O'Connor, wait for the bus to take them on a trip to the Laurel Mountain ski resort.

Nancy Olszewski, Sherry Johnson, Sue Wood, Marilou Warden, Alexis Feineigle, and Dave Bankston, tribunes and consuls of the J.C.L., examine Latin projects.

John Rinehart and Bill Stark watch Larry Rosenberg and Dave Lenz ponder moves in a chess tournament.

Chris Comstock, Janet Clark, Nancy Olszewski, and Sue Triggs decorate the Christmas tree in the main lobby to celebrate the holiday season.

squads meet varied needs

Students who wish to help meet different needs of the school can join one of the service squads. Medical squad members lend efficiency to the medical office by ministering to student health needs. In addition to dispensing band-aids and taking temperatures, these students accept the responsibility for assisting in the case of emergency. The chemistry squad performs countless chores ranging from washing empty beakers and formulating $PbSO_4$ compounds to finding ringstands and stacking stockroom chemicals. Every Thursday morning the opening exercises squad presents thought-provoking ideas prior to the morning announcements. Their topics range from morality and human values to philosophies of life and nonconformity. These three squads provide ways for students to serve teachers and fellow students.

Zoe Howe carefully checks a health report.

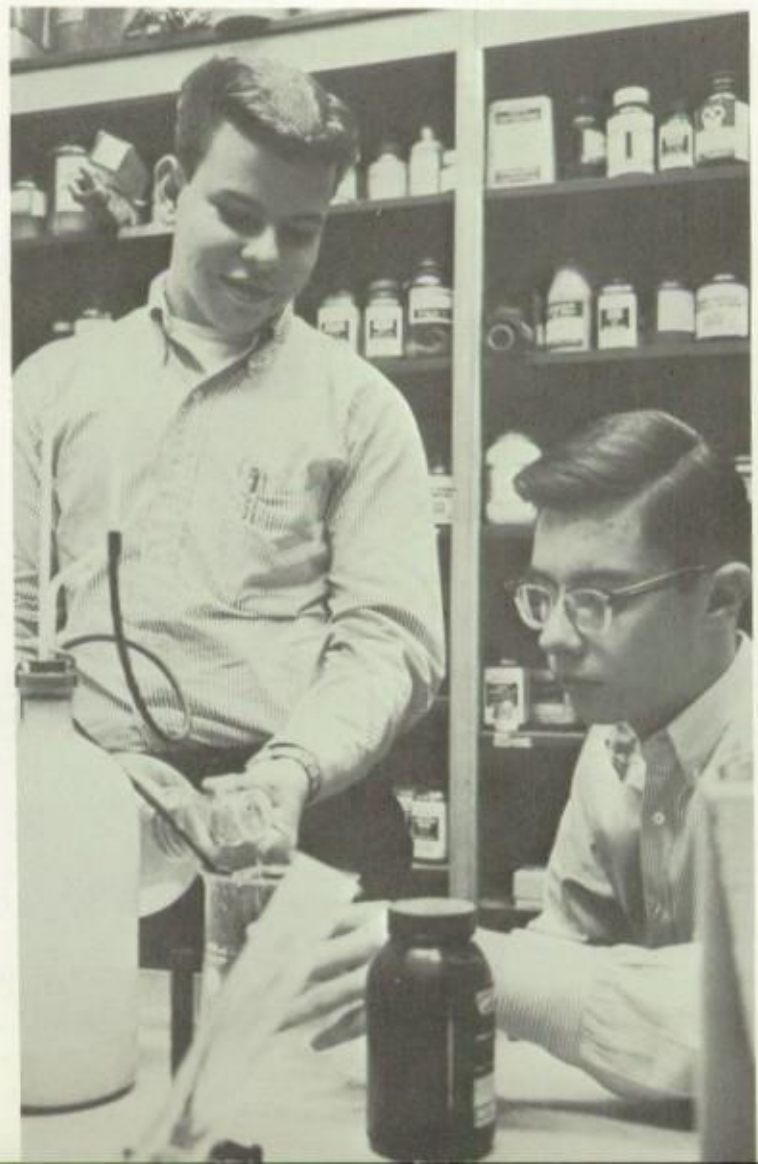
Alan Whitman and Reed Pyeritz assemble chemicals necessary for a demonstration.



Susan Perrin, Laurie Rice, Pam Poulton, Nancy E. Miller, and Mary Lou Rodden, members of the medical squad, assist the nurses by taking temperatures and keeping accurate health records.

Squad members spend their study halls adding to medical office efficiency.

Members of the opening exercises squad, Bob Sweet, Rick Connell, Miss Curtis, and Marsha Meyer, listen to Bob Rosen's suggestion for a future Thursday morning program.

While waiting for a hungry customer, Stephanie Rucker, a member of the ways and means squad, checks total sales.

Louise Rollinson, Rosemary Barclay, Sharon Nolte, Judy Douglas, Jody Hirsh, Kathleen Michenzi, and Sue Himes, members of the library squad, charge books, collect fines, and keep library records.

Al Newman and Ellen O'Sullivan, members of the ways and means squad take an inventory of their candy supply.

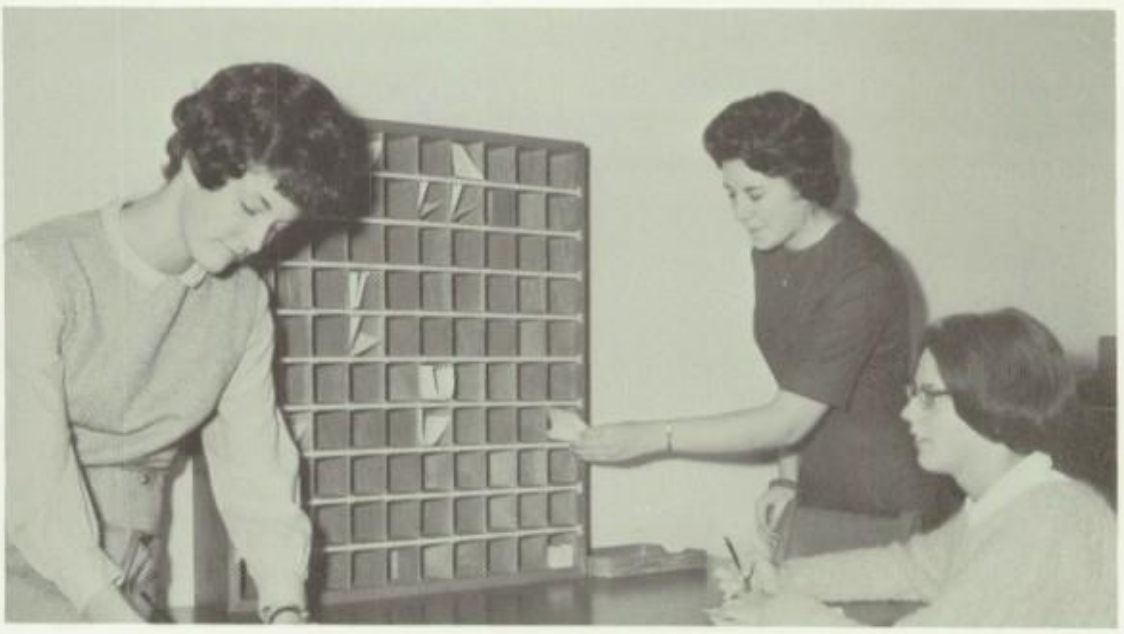
Information squad members, Bob Fitzwilson, Sue Gaylord, Meg O'Connor, and Sue Beardshall, answer visitors' questions concerning the high school.

squads provide service experience

Whether shelving books, compiling absentee lists, or selling candy to the spectators at football games, squads give efficient service to the school. The members of the boys' and girls' information squads direct sophomores through the first few days of school and aid visitors during the entire year. The attendance squad collects absentee slips at the beginning of each period, while the ways and means squad furnishes candy for the famished student body after school. In the library, squad members check out books and keep records in order. The decorating squad works overtime to add colorful streamers and decorations to the school dances. In these squad activities, students participate in worthwhile activities and contribute to school efficiency.

Sue Triggs, Nancy Thornburgh, Janet Clark, and Rex Simpson, members of the decorating squad, prepare the gym for proms and informal dances.

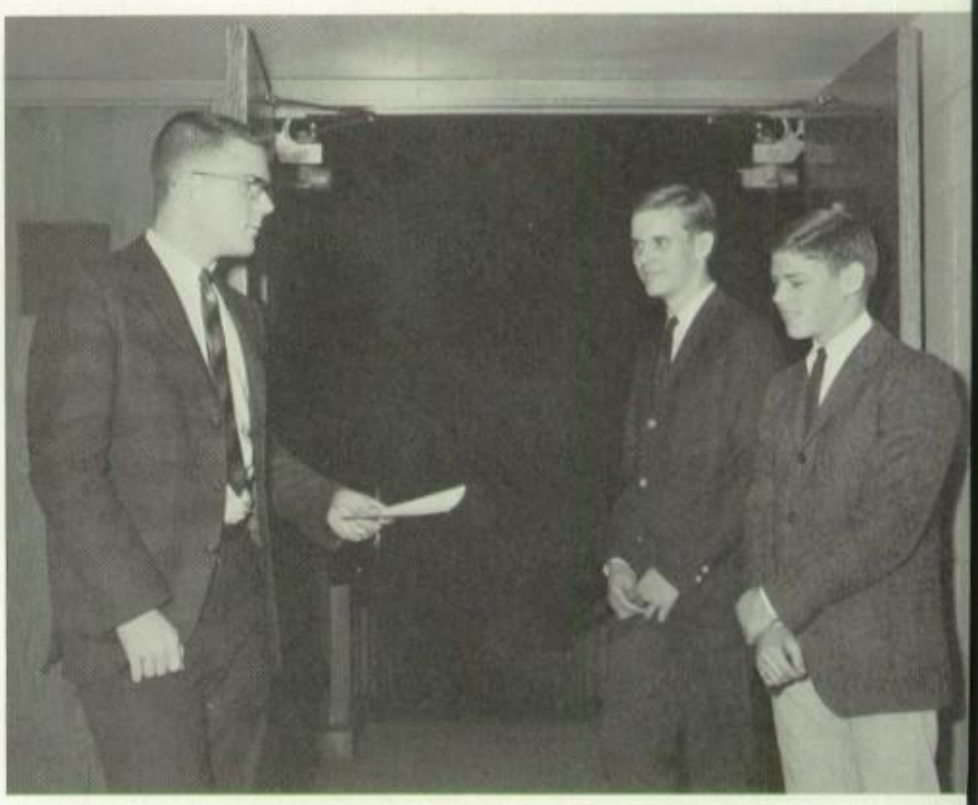
Sue Pozzi, a member of the decorating squad, fastens streamers for the junior-senior prom.



The attendance squad, including Pat Patterson, Maggie Moorhead, and Sara Mehaffey, assists Mrs. Morgan with daily absentee slips.

Jackie Tischbein, Barb Hoppe, Leslie McKee, Carol Kozma, Pat Moore, Kathy Miller, Janet Davis, and Meg O'Connor usher at evening performances in the high school auditorium.

Nancy Olszewski, Chris Comstock, Sue Triggs and Penny Butler wait to check the coats of some early arrivals at an auditorium program.



Ushers Dave Lenz, Ken Campbell, and Dick McMillan distribute programs for an auditorium assembly.

Through their work behind the scenes, members of the ushers, checkroom, ticket-takers, scoreboard and parking lot squads help to keep auditorium and stadium events running smoothly. The boys' ushers squad hosts afternoon auditorium programs, while the girls don formals and heels to usher for the evening shows. Members of the parking lot and checkroom squads take care of personal property of visitors to the high school functions. Another squad operates the scoreboard, keeping accurate count of points made at various athletic events. Acting with responsibility and concern, these groups add greatly to the success of school programs.

squads combine activities and service

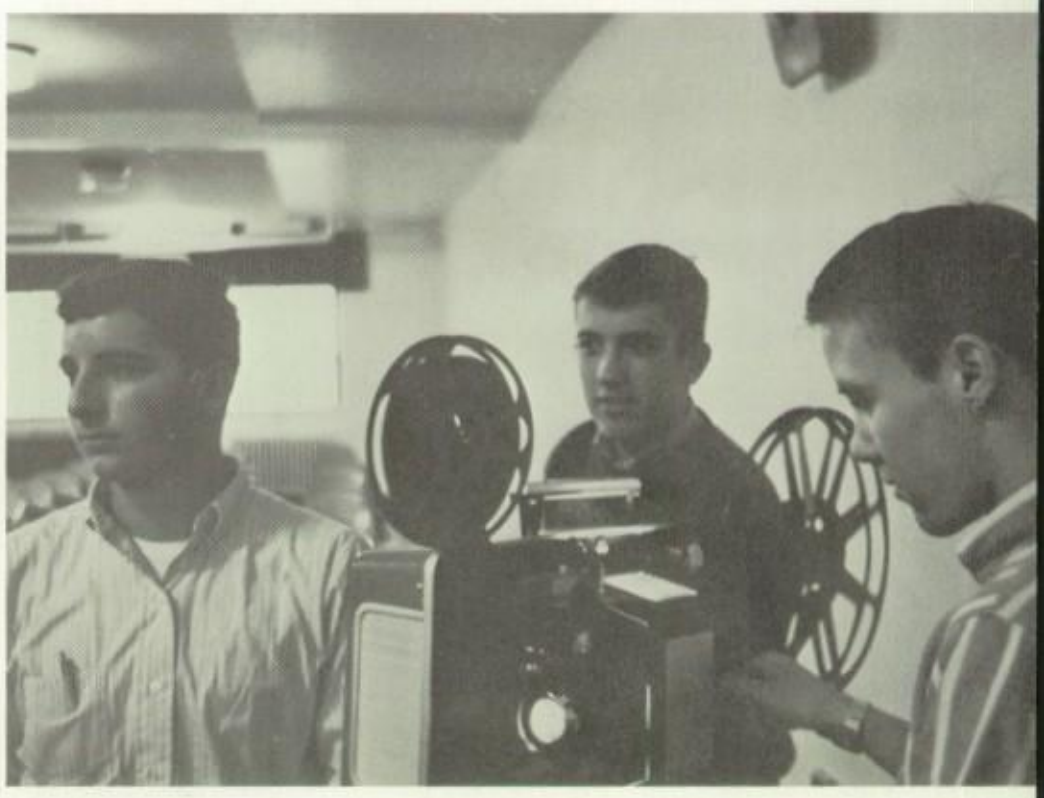
Ticket-takers, Dave Lenz, Stewart Silhol and John Covert record basketball season ticket sales.

Charlie Cox, Earl Gosnell and Bruce Melrose, members of the scoreboard squad, record the players' points for the spectators and officials.

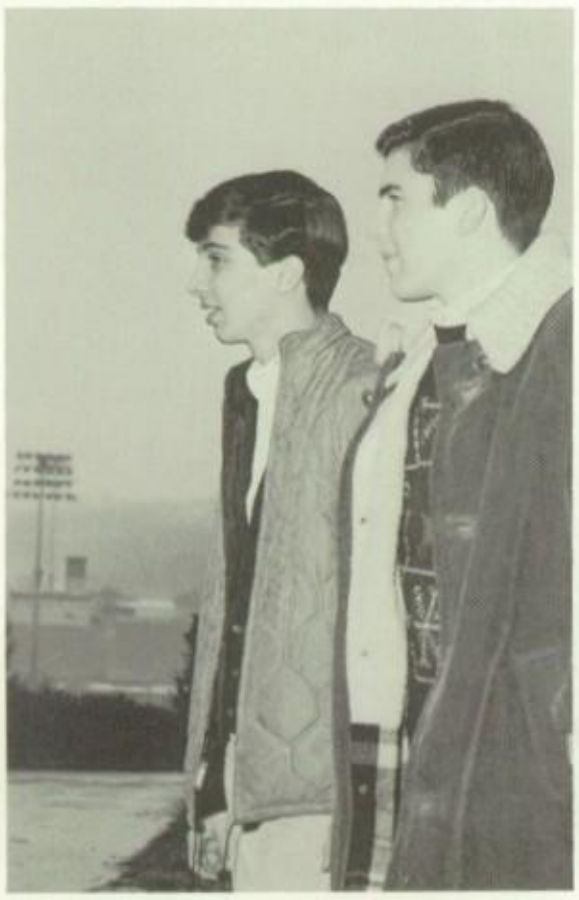
Bill Egan, Wade Berliner, John Headley and Dave Thomas solve a winter traffic problem.

squads volunteer assistance

The projection squad, studio announcers, sportscasters, cafeteria dispatchers, and cafeteria squad all serve the student body by performing needed services. By putting their knowledge of machinery into action, the projection squad makes class movies possible for students and teachers. The sportscasters enlighten the spectators at football and basketball games with details of yardage and fouls. During morning announcements they recap games for students who were not able to attend. The studio squad broadcasts morning announcements and manages broadcasting equipment. The cafeteria squad and dispatchers keep the cafeteria running smoothly by calling classes to lunch and regulating the lunch line. By contributing individual efforts, these squads help provide for the many needs of the school.



Richard Teodori, Neil Myers, and Bill Ramsey, members of the projection squad, set up and operate visual equipment.

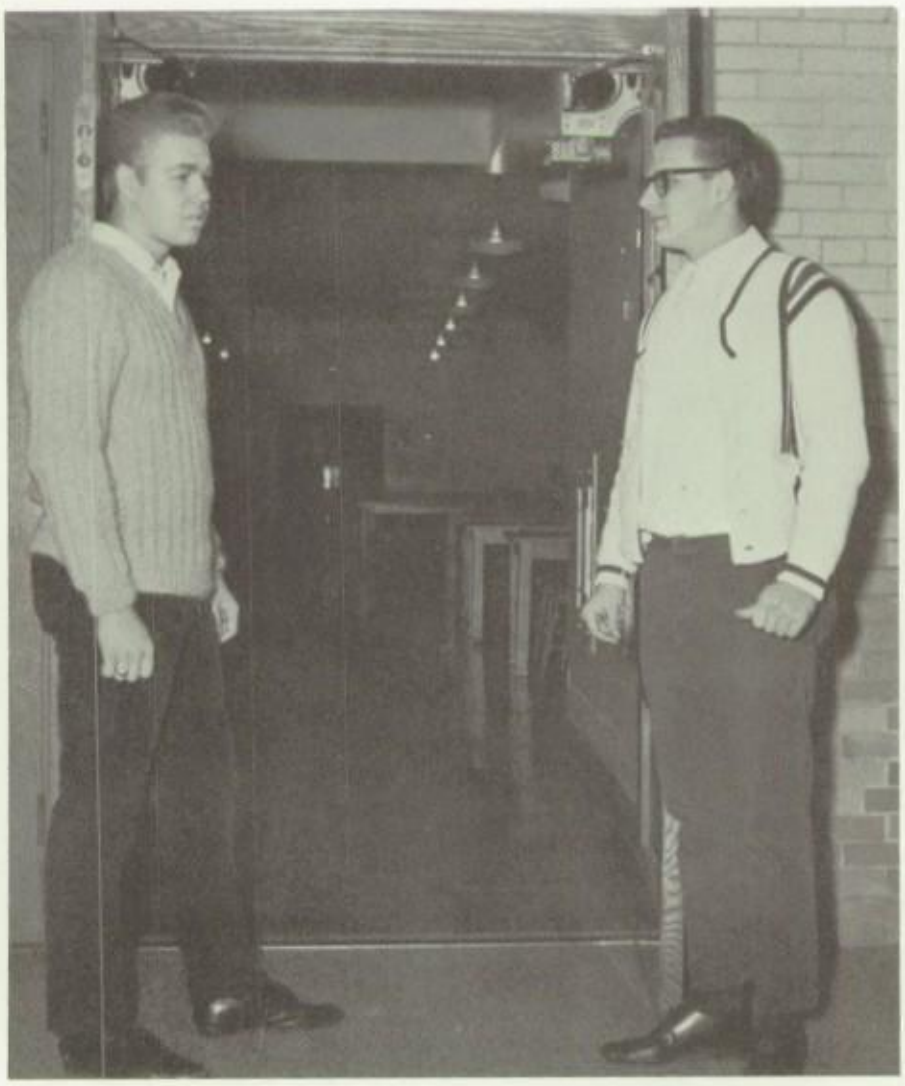


Sportscasters Jack Robb and Jeff Jubelirer inform football fans of the play by play progress of each home game.

The studio announcing squad discusses the morning presentation. Members include: Diane Hixenbaugh, Paula Goodman, Ron Lunardini, Bob Rosen, Elaine Silver, Larry Giles, Bob Altman, Jack Robb, Bruce Keisling, Jeff Jubelirer, Reed Woodhouse, and Tom Aberant.

Tom Remington looks over the morning announcements before he goes on the air.

The cafeteria dispatchers, Sue Gallagher, Patty Flaherty, Karen Deemer and Linda Dailey, check their lunchroom schedules.



Bill Goodberlet and Alan Slater, cafeteria hosts, stand ready to guide the student traffic in the cafeteria.

Jim Maurice strains to receive a pass as his opponent attempts an interception.

The 1964 Blue Devils compiled an outstanding 8-1 overall record and a 6-1 record in W.P.I.A.L. competition. The football team opened the season with a 12-0 victory over Peabody, followed by wins over Langley, Trinity, Canon-MacMillan, Washington, and Wilkinsburg. As the decisive Uniontown game approached, school spirit soared, and Mt. Lebanon students rallied behind their team with a color day and record breaking attendance at the Uniontown stadium. In spite of team efforts, the Uniontown Red Raiders handed the Mounties their only loss of the season by a score of 27-7. Closing the season, the Mounties romped over Baldwin and Munhall.

From the many fine players on this year's team the Western Conference selected Seniors Dennis Devlin, end; Harry George, tackle; and Jim Maurice, halfback; for its All-Star team and gave honorable mention to Senior Ed Greenwald, center.

good season rewards harrier efforts

Although plagued by injuries and a schedule laden with sharp competition, the Mounty Harriers finished the season with a 4-2 record. Sparked by the superb running of oft-injured John Seymour, who placed fifth in the state meet, and prodded on by the consistent performances of Theis and Hoon, the Lebo cross country team placed second in quadrangular competition and scored dual meet victories over Churchill, Baldwin, Hopewell, and Trinity. Through long, hot hours of tiring practice, the Mounty Harriers of '64 overcame obstacles and built a firm basis for the future.

basketball team plays at civic arena

Prompted by hard work and the desire for victory, the 1964-65 basketball team had another excellent season. Coached by Richard Black, the Mounties finished with a 13-1 record in section competition, their only defeat coming at the hands of a fired-up Baldwin team. Though plagued with injury and sickness, Mt. Lebanon showed depth and talent through their continuing victories. Mounty dependables included Bob Marsh, Scott Robinson, Pat Dailey, Bob Fitzwilson, Tom Couch, and Alan Crook, Juniors Wayne Porter and Dave Hein, and Sophomore Vic Surma.

After winning in section 12-A, the Mounties moved to the W.P.I.A.L. playoffs, where they showed their strength by defeating Montour and Norwin. In the third game, at the Civic Arena, the Blue Devils met the formidable Midland Leopards and suffered their third defeat of the entire 25 game schedule. This strong finish in the playoffs brought Mr. Black's fifth consecutive championship season at Mt. Lebanon.

Finishing with a record of 14-0, the Mt. Lebanon swimming team took first place in the W.P.I.A.L. championship, first in the W.P.I.A.L. qualifying meet, and second in the regional qualifying meet. Individual members of the team set five new school records. Tom Pope and Mickey McCollum, Lebo's free-style specialists, established new times in the 100 and 400 yard events, while Shaun McNally set a new record in the backstroke. Dave Solomon swam to a new state time of 54.6 seconds in the 100 yard butterfly. The pull of John Law, Craig Garvey, Mickey McCollum, and Tom Pope also brought records home in the 400 yard freestyle relay. Grueling daily workouts and strong team spirit initiated by co-captains Mickey McCollum and Dick McMillan, coupled with excellent coaching by Mr. William Grant and Mr. William Saunders gave this year's swimming team their outstanding record.

Coach Joseph Pagnanelli's captain, highbarman Todd Tallon, placed ninth in the Western Pennsylvania Championships while ringman Jim Bodkin remained undefeated throughout the dual competition, copping third in the West Penn meet and sixth in the state meet. Other outstanding performances were turned in by horseman Dick Jamieson, ninth at West Penn and eighth at state, and long-horseman Jim Russell, ninth at the Penn meet and twelfth at state. Sophomore Pete Sorg led the team in scoring with 65½ points in dual competition. Consistent achievement, coupled with team talent and spirit, gave the gymnasts a successful season.

A victory over Munhall—the first since 1958—highlighted the 1965 rifle season and helped bring the Lebo shooters into a tie for section leadership. Later in the year, Munhall defeated the Mounties 997^{78x} to 997^{77x} in the closest match in school history. Tied for leadership of the section, Lebo and Munhall held a shoot-off which the Mounty marksmen lost by one point. Mounty shooters performed with similar excellence throughout the rest of the season. Paced by the expert guidance of Coach John Neal and the outstanding accuracy of co-captains Barb Bach and Dave Bissett, the Lebo shooters captured second place in their division. Such consistent performances insured Mt. Lebanon's ranking 9th out of 82 teams in the United States.

golfers excel in section competition

The 1964 Mounty golf team finished the season with a record of 9 wins and 1 loss in section competition. Sparked by the powerful driving and precise putting of six returning team members, the team captured the section title. Outstanding senior members Terry Hart and Bob Hubbard competed in the W.P.I.A.L. Tournament, finishing third and fourth respectively, and then moved on to the State Tournament, where Bob Hubbard finished seventeenth and Terry Hart twentieth. With a number of returning golfers on this year's squad, Coach Ralph Fife hopes for another championship season in 1965.

The 1964 varsity track team finished second only to Penn Hills in area competition, winning one quadruple and four dual meets. Spirited efforts by capable athletes characterized this strong season. Dennis Aitken proved to be a triple threat in many meets, usually capturing the high and low hurdles and the triple jump. Adding 1½″ to the school high jump record, Joe Minneci cleared 6′1″. Another consistent performer, Jack Edgar, led off the 880 relay team and churned to a time of 22.9 seconds for the 220 yard dash. John Seymour, who placed first in many meets, displayed his strength as a runner throughout the season. In the championship meet, Dev Lemster's leap of 13′4″ broke the state record, and Dennis Larabee placed first in the hammer throw.

pitching supports '64 team

A twenty-one inning marathon with Upper St. Clair High School highlighted this year's season in which Mount Lebanon finished high in league competition. Senior Steve Doege went the distance of the prolonged game, striking out twenty-nine batters and giving up only nine hits. In the eighth inning, back-to-back triples by seniors Bill Radasky and Andy Sharkey tied the score at 2-2. Although neither team could break the tie, the game ended fourteen innings later at nightfall.

In this and other games throughout the season, the excellent pitching of Steve Doege and Jack Kime, and consistent hitting by Andy Sharkey, Cal Balducci, and Jeff Clay led the team to a 6-3 mark, good for second place in sectional competition.

Third baseman Gary Christensen tags the runner out in a close play.

tennis team outmatches rivals

Junior W.P.I.A.L. champion Lee Herrington helped boost the Mt. Lebanon tennis team to a noteworthy standing of eight wins, five losses, and one tie during 1964. Under the leadership of Coach Victor M. Doak, the Mounty netmen captured the section championship. In addition to Herrington, junior letterman Glenn Carter, and seniors Martin Dundics, Bob Couser, and Bill McMillan drove the Mounties to the W.P.I.A.L. team semi-finals. Despite their defeat in the semi-finals, the tennis team experienced many successful matches and expects two of its five starters to return next year.

A banquet in the spring serves as an appropriate finale to the year's achievement. As an intramural athletic program for girls, G.A.A. provides enjoyment, exercise, and relaxation.

G.A.A. member Nancy Bonelli attempts a free throw as her teammates look on anxiously.

G.A.A. volleyball champions, Sue Triggs, Penny Butler, Janet Clark, Carol McMillan, Mary Birmingham, Beth Morgans, and Nancy Hollis, represented the school in interscholastic competition.

A G.A.A. member watches as her teammates combine efforts to knock the ball over the net.

intramural sports generate enthusiasm

A team member makes a valiant effort to return the ball.

Intramural athletics gives the interested student an opportunity to grow both physically and mentally by participating in sports on a competitive homeroom basis. Through homeroom basketball games and volleyball matches, students gain friendship and unity in addition to physical fitness. By playing in a basketball game with the homeroom next door or in a coed volleyball contest, students enjoy a beneficial activity.

Student Council-sponsored coed volleyball games provide intramural sports opportunities for students.

Cindy Reschke concentrates on an assignment during the last moments of an activities period.

Enter the sophomore, filled with enthusiasm and a zest for learning. At first lost in the vast labyrinth of education known as the high school, the sophomore searches for a place at Mt. Lebanon. In his quest for identity, he accepts any challenge: math subjectives, intensified swimming workouts and growing obligations in homeroom government. In class, he struggles for recognition and builds his educational foundation. As a year of inquiry passes by, the sophomore realizes what is expected of him and gradually finds his place in the high school. He recognizes his capabilities in using them. He matures.

With college faintly visible and future plans slowly evolving, the junior returns to school, determined to improve, convinced that he knows the system and will make good. Caught in the middle of a vast social and academic panorama, the junior contemplates the fledgling sophomore below and the veteran senior above. The junior resolves to improve his nebulous position of half-importance and to search for individuality. Newfound responsibilities and grades, coupled with the thrills of surviving various first floor wafts of hydrogen sulfide, make the junior year one of varied sensations. Optimism and hope juggle constantly with discouragement; the busy junior year, a year of thought, slips away behind banging typewriters, slamming doors, and silent bookshelves.

History students wait anxiously as their instructor returns a set of papers.

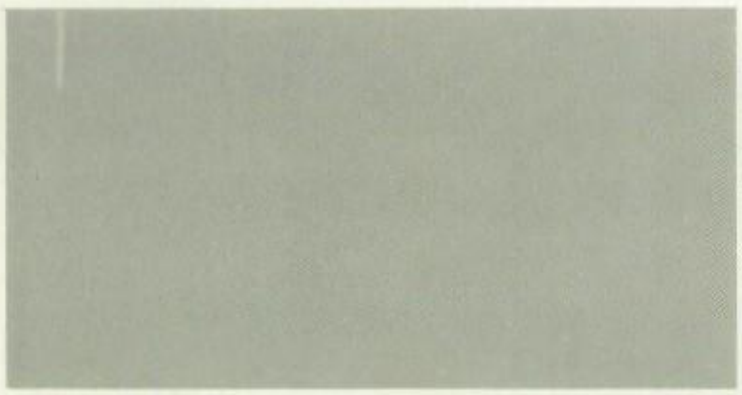
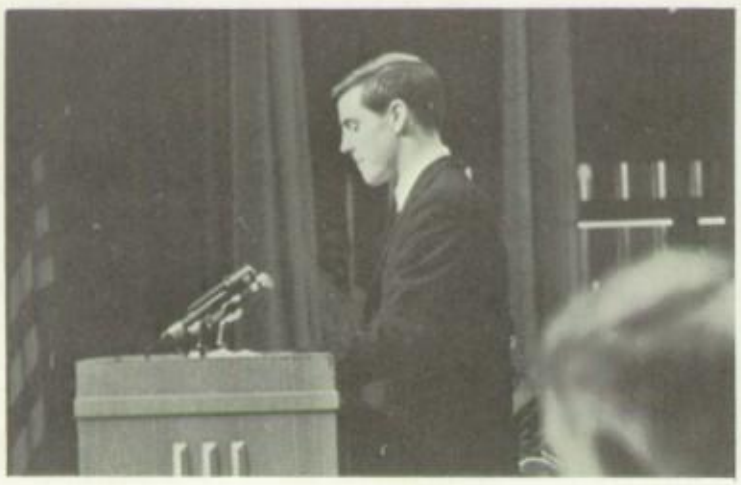
"Death is but crossing the world, as Friends do the Seas. They live in one another still."

William Penn





seniors

i have young time
to see and learn and grow and feel.
100 years ago i would now be prepared.
but the beckoning tomorrow door
then open now stands ajar with the blockade of fourmore permitting only partial view of the puzzle i must fit into.
today
i sit and write anxious letters wanting to go many places
but really one place and try to curb my desire to bear the yoke (now.)
by telling myself and others large stories with a serious smile.
for all this is my duty as a big senior at least bigger.

alma mater

'Neath cedars stately, midst hills so bold, Stands our Mt. Lebanon, realm of Blue and Gold,
Radiant with splendor, valor, virtue, and truth,
Moulder of our destiny, guardian of our youth.
Ever our praises shall ring, Alma Mater, for thee.

Cher,

I don't know what to say. It's been one ! of a year. We're really even now. I love Hal & you love Bill. But we're still friends to the end. If I ever run away again I'll let you over. Then we can take a health walk. Next year I hope we do things we can't even write. Small riot. Be good. Don't do anything I wouldn't do. That'll keep you so ! pure you won't be able to stand it.

Love ya!
Barbie

Cheryl.
Remember Spanish
because I doubt if I will.
I won't wish you luck because you don't need it. You have both brains + beauty applenty to make you a smashing success in life.

Love
Bruce "Chico" DuPré

Cheryl,
Never forget Rockettes.
The marching. dinners + bus rides. Acuerdo tu español?
Bueno. Good luck.
Marianna

Cheryl,
Best of Luck Always.
Don't forget Spec and Mr. Hall and all the fun we didn't have in English. I only hope
I pass the course.
Love Connie

Jumpy

Cheryl,
This is to a joke! I've really enjoyed getting to know you in Spanish. Good luck & have a great Senior year, I'll still be here to enjoy it with you!

Cheryl,
Good Luck in Ken

Cheryl,
So one of the greatest kids I know!
We didn't have any classes together this year but we still had alot of fun at the olympian parties and during the campaign.
You'll make a great secretary (I'm sure). Good luck with that and in everything else you do. See ya this summer and next year.

The best!

cheryl
To the greatest, best and most ugly girl I know. I hope you and Hal get along great. I want to wish you all of the luck in the world next year.

Love you always Missie.

Dear Cheryl,
To a really fabulous kid! Hope we can continue to have fun together! Be good! And best of luck in everything you do—
love,
Pat "66"

Cheryl
You're a really sweet kid (even if you are a Junior) & I hope your senior day is as great as this one
